FRONT OFFICE

DARYL MOREY

President of Basketball Operations

Daryl Morey recently completed his third season as President of Basketball Operations for the Philadelphia 76ers. Morey oversees all areas of the 76ers basketball operations department. In 2022-23, the 76ers completed a 54-28 regular-season, the team's best since 2000-01. James Harden, who played his first full season as a 76er, became the first player in franchise history to win the assist title (10.7), and Joel Embiid captured his second consecutive scoring crown (33.1). Harden and Embiid were the first set of teammates to earn the assist and scoring titles in the same season since 1981-82. On the year, Morey's 76ers led the NBA in three-point percentage (.387) and free-throw percentage (.835), becoming the ninth team ever to do so. Since taking over in Nov. 2020, Morey's 76er teams have won more than 65% of their regular-season games, a top-three mark in the NBA, while advancing in the playoffs every season. At the NBA trade deadline in Feb. 2022, Morey orchestrated the 76ers' acquisition of 10-time All-Star and seven-time All-NBA selection James Harden in a deal with the Brooklyn Nets. Morey joined the organization after 14 seasons with the Houston Rockets, 13 of which were spent as general manager. With Morey as general manager, Houston compiled a 640-400 (.615) record, the second-best of any NBA team during that span.

Among executives with at least 1,000 games of experience, Morey's .622 winning percentage ranks fourth all time, behind only Buford (.701), Auerbach (.652) and West (.629), and ahead of Scott Layden (.619) and Masai Ujiri (.617). Morey-led teams have qualified for the playoffs in each of the last 11 seasons (2013-23), good for the sixth-longest streak in league history. Between 2007-23, Morey's teams have never had a losing season, winning 50-plus games 10 times and qualifying for the postseason on 13 occasions. The Rockets' eight straight playoff appearances (2013-2020), including multiple trips to the Western Conference Finals, represented the longest streak in the NBA over that span. Over the years, Morey played a part in bringing several All-Star-caliber players to Houston through trades and free agency, including James Harden, Kyle Lowry, Dwight Howard and Chris Paul. In 2017-18, Morey earned Executive of the Year honors, while Harden was named MVP, following a franchise best 65-17 regular season. Prior to joining the Rockets as assistant general manager in 2006, Morey served three years as Sr. Vice President of Operations for the Boston Celtics. Originally from Ohio, Morey is a graduate of Northwestern University and also holds an MBA from MIT where he serves as the co-chair of the school's annual Sports Analytics Conference.

ELTON BRAND

General Manager

Elton Brand recently completed his fifth season as General Manager of the Philadelphia 76ers. During Brand's tenure as general manager, the 76ers have qualified for the postseason five times while compiling a 248-143 (.634) regular-season record, the second-highest winning percentage in the league. Philadelphia is 144-50 (.742) at home over Brand's first five seasons as general manager, including a league-best 29-2 (.935) mark at The Center in 2019-20 and an Eastern Conference leading 29-7 (.806) in 2020-21.

In 2022-23, the 76ers compiled a 54-28 record, finishing third in the Eastern Conference, the team's best season under Brand, and its best since 2000-01. Six-time All-Star Joel Embiid earned his second consecutive scoring title (33.1) and James Harden won the assist title (10.7) as he became the first 76er ever to do so. Philadelphia has earned 50-plus wins in three of Brand's five seasons as general manager.

Under Brand's guidance, the 2021-22 76ers finished the regular season 51-31, in fourth place in the Eastern Conference. In 2020-21, Brand played a key role in constructing a roster that posted the 76ers' best record in 20 seasons, earning the No. 1 seed in the Eastern Conference playoffs.

Over his tenure, Brand has reshaped the 76ers roster surrounding the team's dynamic, young core. In 2019, He orchestrated a draft night trade to acquire Matisse Thybulle and a trade-deadline swap to bring a talented scorer in Tobias Harris to Philadelphia. In 2018-19, his first season as general manager, he made several moves, bolstering a team that won 51 games and held a 31-10 record in home games. The 31 home wins were Philadelphia's most in a season since 1989-90.

Brand's success as general manager comes following a 17-year playing career, during which he spent parts of five seasons playing for the 76ers. Prior to assuming the GM role with the 76ers, Brand spent the 2017-18 season in the same capacity with the Delaware Blue Coats (NBA G League), a role in which he oversaw all personnel moves related to the 76ers G League franchise. Following his retirement from the NBA, Brand spent the 2016-17 season with the 76ers as a player development consultant. Overall, Brand played in 1,058 NBA contests (868 starts) over 17 seasons with Chicago, the Clippers, Philadelphia, Dallas and Atlanta, making two All-Star appearances (2002 and 2006). He posted averages of 15.9 points, 8.5 rebounds, 2.1 assists and 1.7 blocks per game, while shooting .500 percent from the field and .736 percent from the free-throw line in 33.0 minutes per game. His 1,828 blocks place him 22nd all-time in NBA history.

In addition to his role within 76ers basketball operations, Brand is an active community ambassador, serving on the boards of both the Sixers Youth Foundation and Philadelphia Film Society. He sponsors young people through the Urban Affairs Coalition's Summer Youth Employment Program, which provides paid summer job opportunities and support to youth ages 14-18. The six-week program includes career exposure, on-the-job mentoring and professional development. Brand recently completed the High-Potential Leaders program at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, where he worked closely with Wharton's leadership experts and other high potentials from around the world in a dynamic, interactive environment.

DOC RIVERS

Head Coach

Glenn "Doc" Rivers recently completed his third season as the head coach of the 76ers. He was named the 25th head coach in franchise history on Oct. 2, 2020 and joined the club following seven seasons at the helm with the L.A. Clippers. His 1,097 wins are the second-most among active NBA coaches, while ranking ninth all-time in league history. In 2022, Rivers was selected as one of the 15 Greatest Coaches in NBA history by a panel of 43 current and former NBA head coaches in collaboration with the National Basketball Coaches Association.

The 1999-2000 NBA Coach of the Year, Rivers is one of nine active NBA head coaches to win an NBA title and owns a lifetime 1,097-763 (.590) regular season coaching record and a 104-100 playoff record (.510) record. His 104 postseason victories place him fourth all-time in NBA history. He is one of eight coaches in NBA history to lead his teams to 50-or-more wins

Over the course of his third season in Philadelphia, Rivers earned a pair of Eastern Conference Coach of the Month awards (January, March/April), becoming the first coach in franchise history to earn multiple such honors in a season. Rivers' 14 Coach of the Month nods are the second-most in the league since the NBA first began awarding Coach of the Month by conference in 2002-03.

This past season, he led the team to a 54-28 record, top-three in the Eastern Conference. It was the team's best season since 2000-01 (56-26). Rivers' 76ers had a 40-3 (.930) record when leading after three quarters, which ranked second in the league this season.

Rivers' 2021-22 76ers completed the regular season with a 51-31 record, top-four in the Eastern Conference. The team won 16 of its last 24 games after the trade deadline and the acquisition of 10-time All-Star and seven-time All-NBA selection James Harden. Rivers meshed Harden with a starting five that included All-Star Joel Embiid, creating a starting unit that led the league with a 20.2 net rating over 20 games together.

In his first season with the 76ers, he led the team to a 49-23 record, the best mark in the East, as Philadelphia won 29 of its 36 home games. Rivers' 76ers finished the 2020-21 season with the best defense in the Eastern Conference, while finishing top-two in the NBA in defensive rating and in both blocks and steals per game. Rivers' starting five of Joel Embiid, Ben Simmons, Seth Curry, Danny Green and Tobias Harris ranked fifth league-wide with a net rating of plus-16.0, winning 27 of the 32 games they started together. In January 2021, Rivers was named Eastern Conference Coach of the Month, after leading Philadelphia to a 21-6 mark through the first month-plus of the season.

Over seven seasons leading the Clippers, Rivers boasted a 356-208 (.631) record, making him the winningest coach in franchise history. His teams qualified for the playoffs six times and won 50-or-more games on four occasions, including a team-record 57 victories in 2013-14.

Before joining the Clippers, Rivers spent nine seasons with the Celtics, compiling a 416-305 (.576) record and leading the Celtics to the 2008 NBA Championship with an NBA-best 66-16 regular season record. Rivers led the Celtics to six Atlantic Division titles, the 2009-10 Eastern Conference Championship and a 59-47 (.556) Playoff record.

During the course of the 2007-08 campaign with the Celtics, he received NBA Coach of the Month three times. He became the only Celtics coach since the award's inception (1982-83) to win the award three times. He joined K.C. Jones, Jimmy Rodgers and Chris Ford as the only Celtics head coaches to have won the award.

Before taking over the Celtics, Rivers spent just over four seasons as the head coach of the Orlando Magic, earning Coach of the Year Honors in his first season for leading a team that featured four undrafted starters to a 41-41 record. Rivers guided the Magic to three straight playoff appearances from 2000-03, and overall tallied a 171-168 (.506) record in Orlando.

Born on Oct. 13, 1961, Rivers played 13 seasons in the NBA for Atlanta (1983-91), the Clippers (1991-92), New York (1992-94) and San Antonio (1994-96). He played for three of the game's top coaches in Pat Riley, Larry Brown and Mike Fratello, and posted career averages of 10.9 points, 5.7 assists and 3.0 rebounds per game.

His teams advanced to the NBA playoffs 10 times, where he averaged 11.4 points, 5.9 assists and 3.3 rebounds. Rivers saw action in 864 regular season games and 81 playoff games over the course of his career.

Rivers averaged a double-double in 1986-87 (12.8 points per game, 10.0 assists per game) and was selected to play in the 1988 NBA All-Star Game. He averaged a career-best 15.2 points per game in 1990-91 and scored a career-high 37 points against Seattle on Feb. 4, 1988. He also shares an NBA single-game playoff record for most assists in one half (15 vs. Boston, May 16, 1988).

Drafted after his junior season out of Marquette by the Atlanta Hawks in the second round (No. 31 overall) of the 1983 NBA Draft, he played the first eight years of his career with Atlanta, setting the Hawks' single-season assists record with 823 in 1986-87 and ended his stint with the team as the franchise's all-time assist leader with 3,866.

A product of Proviso East High School in Maywood, Illinois, Rivers earned the nickname "Doc" from former Marquette coach Rick Majerus when he wore a "Dr. J" T-shirt to a summer basketball camp.

Rivers played for the United States at the 1982 World Championship of Basketball, leading the U.S. to a silver medal and earning tournament MVP honors after averaging a team-best 18.6 points per game. During the summer of 2001, he served as an assistant coach for the USA Men's Basketball Team at the Goodwill Games in Brisbane, Australia, that captured the Gold Medal.

Rivers earned a pre-law/political science degree from Marquette in 1985 and was honored by the Pro Basketball Writers with the 1990 J. Walter Kennedy Basketball Citizenship Award. Following the 1999-2000 season, Rivers was named Male Coach-of-the-Year at the Rainbow Sports Awards, which reflect not only accomplishments in the sports industry, but also the grace, dignity, commitment and humanity each individual exemplifies. In June 2013, Rivers received the Sam Lacy Pioneer Award at the 2013 National Association of Black Journalists national convention. The award is given annually to sports figures based on their contributions to their respected careers and direct impact on the communities they served.

He has long been active in the community, serving as a member of the All-Star Advisory Council for the Jr. NBA and Jr. WNBA youth basketball support program, offering instrumental guidance to the player, coach and parent training efforts for recreational youth basketball leagues across the country. Rivers participated in the 2015 Special Olympics World Games in Los Angeles, taking part in the Opening Ceremonies and assisting during the basketball events.

HARRIS BLITZER SPORTS & ENTERTAINMENT LEADERSHIP

TAD BROWN

Chief Executive Officer, Harris Blitzer Sports & Entertainment

In his second season as CEO of the Philadelphia 76ers, the organization further solidified itself as one of the top franchises in professional sports. The 76ers clinched their sixth straight playoff berth, winning 54 regular season games to secure home-court advantage in the first round. Meanwhile, off the court, the team had a record-breaking year with the addition of multiple blue-chip partners, while leading various community initiatives throughout the greater Philadelphia community. During the offseason, the team announced its plans to build a new arena, 76 Place at Market East, scheduled to open for the 2031-32 NBA season.

Prior to joining HBSE, Brown spent nearly two decades with the Houston Rockets, Toyota Center and Clutch City Sports and Entertainment, 15 of which were spent as CEO. In his role in Houston, he was a member of the NBA's Board of Governors, served as the representative to the Executive Committee, and served on the league's Media Committee. Over his tenure, Brown helped position the Rockets as one of the NBA's premier global franchises, as well as a cornerstone of the Houston community. The business thrived under his leadership, setting Toyota Center records for sellouts, attendance, total events, and customer satisfaction. Additionally, Houston hosted NBA All-Star Weekend in both 2006 and 2013, as Brown played a key role in making Toyota Center the first NBA building to have two All-Star Games over a seven-year period. His extensive knowledge of media rights helped fuel the Rockets growth, including the creation of the Houston Regional Sports Network in 2012, now established as AT&T SportsNet Southwest. In 2017, Brown orchestrated the sale of the Rockets by Leslie Alexander to Tilman Fertitta for a then-NBA and global sports franchise record $2.2 billion.

Prior to joining the Rockets, Brown was a Founder and President of Streetball Partners International. For more than a decade, he worked in partnership with NBC Sports and the NBA to build Streetball into the world's largest global grassroots basketball property.

Brown is a graduate of Colgate University, where he was a four-year starter and three-year captain of the varsity basketball team. He and his wife, Janice, have four daughters and one granddaughter.

KEY NOTES

• The Philadelphia 76ers ended the 2022-23 regular season campaign with the third-best record in the NBA at 54-28 (.659), the team's best record since 2000-01 (56-26). It's the team's sixth consecutive playoff appearance dating back to 2017-18.

• The 76ers have won at least 60-percent of their games in three straight seasons, the team's longest such streak since doing so in seven straight seasons from 1978-1986.

• Twenty-five of Philadelphia's 54 wins came on the road, marking the eighth time in franchise history the team won at least 25 contests away from home.

• Philadelphia's defense allowed the third-fewest points per game this season (110.9), while finishing the season as one of five teams to hold opponents to under 50% shooting from the field and below 35% from beyond the arc.

• The 76ers finished the season 40-3 when holding a lead after the third quarter, the second-best such record in the NBA. Philadelphia's three wins this season when trailing by 20-plus points also tied for the most by any NBA team in 2022-23.

• For the season, the team led the NBA in both three-point percentage (franchise-record 38.7%) and free-throw percentage (franchise-record 83.5%), while ranking sixth in overall field-goal percentage (48.7%). The team's 83.5% mark from the free-throw line is the second-highest mark in NBA history (83.9%, 2020-21 Los Angeles Clippers).

• This marked the ninth time since the NBA inducted the three-point line in 1979-80 – and the first time in franchise history – that a team has led the league in both three-point and free-throw percentages.

• By the end of the season, Rivers totaled 1,043 wins as a coach, moving him into ninth place in NBA history one win ahead of Hall of Famer Rick Adelman.

• The 76ers finished the season ranked third in the NBA in offensive rating (117.0) and eighth in defensive rating (112.7), one of three teams in the top-eight in both categories.

• Philadelphia put together two eight-game winning streaks this season (Dec. 9-25; March 4-18). It was the first season in which the team posted multiple eight-game winning streaks since 2002-03.

•The 76ers were one of three teams in the league with at least three players averaging 20-or-more points (Embiid, Harden, Maxey). Embiid, who earned his second straight scoring title, averaged 33.1 points per game.

• Embiid is the first player since the 1976-77 NBA-ABA merger to average 33 points and 10 rebounds in a season. He's the first player to win consecutive scoring titles since Harden (2017-20) and second 76er to do so, joining Allen Iverson (2000-02).

• James Harden averaged 21.0 points, a league-leading 10.7 assists and 6.1 rebounds, as he became the first 76er ever to capture the NBA's assist title. He's also the first Philadelphia player ever to average double-digit assists for a full season.

• Embiid and Harden are the first pair of teammates to win the scoring and assist titles in the same season since 1981-82 (San Antonio's George Gervin and Johnny Moore). Overall, they are just the fifth pair of teammates ever to do so (1973-74 – Bob McAdoo, Ernie DiGregorio, 1962-63 – Wilt Chamberlain, Guy Rodgers, 1951-52 – Paul Arizin, Andy Phillip).

• Tyrese Maxey became the sixth 76er to average at least 20 points at age 22-or-younger, and shot 48.1% from the floor, 43.4% from three and 84.5% from the foul line, becoming the second 76er ever to post such splits.

• Maxey's three-point percentage ranks fourth in team history and was fifth overall in the NBA in 2022-23.

• For the second time of his career, Tobias Harris ended a season with a field-goal percentage of at least 50%, both of which have come with Philadelphia. Harris is one of 13 players in team history with multiple seasons shooting 50%-or-better from the floor.

• In his first season with the 76ers, De'Anthony Melton posted career highs in three-pointers made (157), assists (197), blocks (41) and steals (126, second in the NBA). Melton is the first 76er ever to post such totals in a season.

• Fellow first-year 76er, P.J. Tucker, shot 39.3% from three-point range, while holding his opponents to 2% under their season field-goal percentages while defending them.

KEY NOTES

• Georges Niang's 149 made threes off the bench were the most ever by a 76er and the second-most in the NBA in 2022-23. Niang also set a franchise mark for the most games with three-or-more made threes as a reserve (28).

• Paul Reed set career highs in points, rebounds, assists, steals and blocks while shooting 59.3% from the field this season.

• Shake Milton set a new career high with an average of 3.2 assists per game, including a career-best 16-assist outing on April 7 at Atlanta.

• Acquired prior to the Feb. 9 trade deadline via Charlotte, Jalen McDaniels posted a pair of 20-point games for Philadelphia, the sixth and seventh such performances of his career. He shot 40% from beyond the arc in his 24 games as a 76er.

• In his first career NBA start on April 7 at Atlanta, Jaden Springer posted 19 points (8-13 FG) in 34 minutes. Prior to rejoining the 76ers for the stretch run, Springer helped lead the Delaware Blue Coats to the NBA G League championship, capturing Finals MVP honors.

• Dewayne Dedmon, who signed the the 76ers on Feb. 14, appeared in eight games for the team over the season's final two months, shooting 59.1% from the floor.

• Danuel House Jr. shot a career-best 47.2% from the field in his first year with the team, posting double-figure points on six occasions, including a season-high 22-point effort on April 7 at Atlanta.

• Montrezl Harrell totaled a season-high 20 points on Jan. 8 vs. Detroit. All told, he tallied 10 double-figure scoring games, including one 11-point, 10-rebound double-double on April 7 at Atlanta.

• Furkan Korkmaz posted a season-high 17 points (6-7 FG) at Orlando on Nov. 27. He made a season-best three three-pointers on two occasions.
